Tokyo Claim Denied

MacArthur Says Jap Reports Of U. S. Losses False

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 9—Japanese claims of large losses inflicted on United Nations vessels in the battle of the Coral sea were branded as false today by Gen. MacArthur's headquarters.

An official communique said the Jap claims were "fantastic." The Japanese version of the sea battle north of Australia is "completely fictional," the communique said.

The enemy story was described as straight propaganda. Actually the United Nations losses were relatively light, it was said.

"The enemy version of the battle off the northeastern coast of Australia is entirely fictional and has no semblance of truth," Gen. MacArthur declared.

TOKYO, May 9—(By Official Japanese Wireless) — Japanese in an official communique today admitted the loss of an aircraft carrier and 31 planes in the battle of the Coral sea.

The carrier was described as "small sized." The communique claimed that a United Nations destroyer had been sunk, a cruiser heavily damaged and 89 planes shot down. These were in addition to claims made yesterday, the communique said.

The Imperial high command said in a previous communique that two American aircraft carriers and a battleship had been sunk and a United Nations warship and cruiser damaged.

RAF Bombs Two Baltic Ports

STRONG FLEETS BLAST ROSTOCK, WARNEMEUNDE

London Admits 19 Raiding Planes Knocked Down In Major Offensive

AIRCRAFT PLANT STRUCK

Terminus Of Ferry Line To Denmark Assaulted By Allied Pilots

By LEO V. DOLAN
LONDON, May 9 — Powerful fleets of RAF bombers and fighters today rained devastating blows on the German cities of Rostock and Warnemuende and blasted at Nazi airdromes in France.

Nineteen bombers are missing as the result of all phases of the large-scale operation, the air ministry disclosed in an official communique. Intense opposition was encountered, especially over Warnemuende, the communique said.

It was assumed in authoritative circles that the new assault against off-bombed Rostock was aimed at the Heinkel airplane works, the Neptune shipyards and other industrial objectives of the vital Baltic commercial port.

Training Base Hit
Targets in Warnemuende, seven miles north of Rostock on the tip of a Baltic inlet, included docks, a U-boat training base site and a vital aircraft factory, it was learned. Warnemuende also has been used by the Germans as a base for conveying troops and supplies to Norway.

The German news agency DNB confirmed the attacks on Rostock and Warnemuende, declaring the RAF had inflicted "terror" on the two cities. Material damage to "non-military" objectives and some civilian casualties resulted, DNB said, and added 12 of the attacking planes were shot down.

Meanwhile, the Luftwaffe bombed an East Anglian town, identified in Berlin as Norwich, and the air ministry said some civilians were killed and some damage inflicted. Two German Messerschmitt planes were shot down off England's southwest coast, however, and at least one of six Messerschmitts attacking the British trawler H. M. S. Horatio was destroyed.

AIR POWER BIG FACTOR IN FIGHT WITH JAP FLEET

By RALPH JORDAN
UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 9—Air power, the vital complement of modern war, was credited today with enabling the United Nations forces to crush the Japanese fleet in the battle of the Coral sea.

The fierce five-day naval engagement also answered one of the paramount questions of the war—that of the fighting ability of the democratic nations—and showed that, given the proper equipment, United Nations forces, man for man, can readily outfight the Japs.

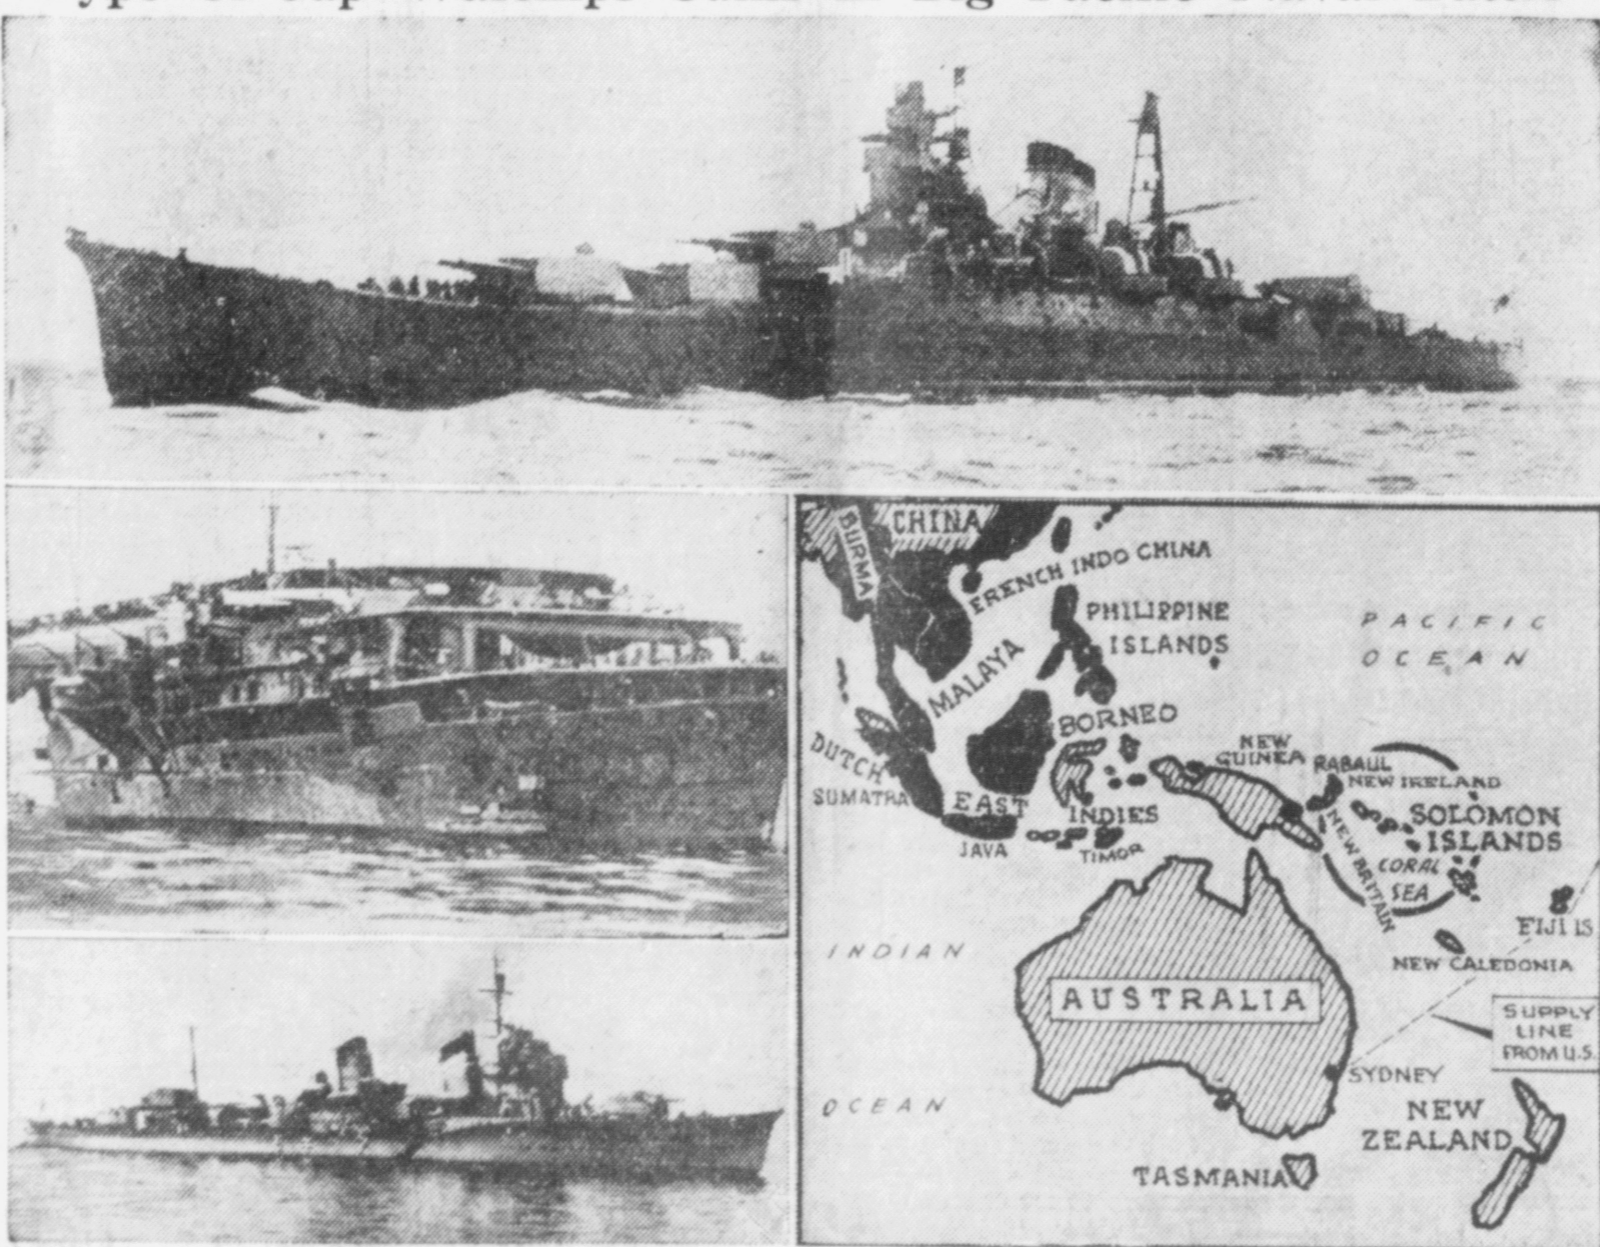

In the battle somewhere off Australia the United Nations ships for the first time in any engagement in the Pacific were backed up by adequate air support. In this respect they met the Japanese on an equal footing and stood ready to make their mark.

The Jap ship concentrations, caught in the range of United States dive-bombing planes, were blasted under the waves or sent fleeing back to their bases.

Without air power the United Nations naval units never would have dared to intercept the Jap fleet and face the extreme danger of air attack from the enemy bases in islands above the commonwealth. With it they were able to steam into battle and come out victorious.

Papers in the estate are filed in the name of Mrs. Adele S. Wall Thomas.

The will was written November 4, 1927, and was witnessed by Judge Meeker Terwilliger and Lawrence J. Johnson. Appraisers will be W. Joe Burns, Myra C. Moore and G. L. Schlar.

Herald's Subscription Prices To Go Up Monday

SUPPLY OF GAS MAY BE TAKEN IN RATION RUSH

WASHINGTON, May 9—Price administration officials today expressed fears that motorists will exhaust the supplies of east coast filling stations before gasoline rationing begins next week.

They anticipate a "rush" by the Atlantic seaboard's 3,000,000 "non-essential" motorists to "tank up" before the restrictions are effective, which may result in the "sold out" sign hanging from gas pumps from Maine to Florida.

Rationing will commence next Friday and unlike the procedure followed during sugar rationing, gasoline sales will not be halted next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday as some 10,000,000 car owners in 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia register for ration cards.

60,000 GERMAN SOLDIERS SLAIN IN TWO MONTHS

MOSCOW, May 9 — Russian armies on the Leningrad front killed or wounded 60,000 German soldiers during March and April, the Moscow report reported today while Soviet forces on the central front prepared for "decisive battles" against the Nazis.

Red army units, assisted by guerrillas, have dislodged the Germans from strategic, highly-fortified positions in the Karelian and Leningrad sectors and the Russian air force has carried out heavy raids against Nazi positions in Norway and Finland during an aerial battle still in progress, it was learned.

WASHINGTON, May 9—"Publicity," a Wichita, Kans., weekly newspaper, today became the fourth publication within a month to be barred from the mails for allegedly printing seditious statements. THOUSANDS OF JAPS LOST IN SEA FIGHT

LONDON, May 9—Japanese losses of men in the battle of the Coral sea probably will run into the thousands, a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Australia said today.

A large number must have drowned, it was said, because of the number of enemy ships sunk. A Reuter dispatch from Australia said reports form an advanced United Nations base called the outcome of the battle the greatest defeat suffered by the Japanese in the Pacific area.

Two large aircraft carriers, at least one cruiser and seven destroyers, were sunk, according to Reuters. Many others were damaged. This was the first word received that the Japs had lost two carriers. United Nations headquarters said one had been sunk and another badly damaged. Waves of dive bombers, the Reuters report said, attacked one aircraft carrier, causing it to roll over and sink immediately. The second was said to have been attacked by torpedoes which set it afire from end to end before it sank.

VICHY — Five men standing near the site where a German soldier was attacked in Paris were shot immediately, the Vichy radio said today. German authorities in Paris described the men as "Jews and Communists." An additional 50 hostages will be executed Sunday unless the attackers are found, the broadcast said. Five hundred more residents of occupied France were reported to have been sent "East" to work in German labor camps.

NEW DELHI—Col. Louis Johnson, President Roosevelt's special envoy to India, expects to leave shortly for the United States, but plans to confer first with Mohandas K. Gandhi, spiritual leader of India's Hindu millions, it was reported today.

This dispatch was sent from an enemy country, whose motive in releasing news is likely to be propaganda. Axis claims should be credited only when confirmed by American or Allied sources.

BERLIN—(By Official German Wireless) — The German News Agency, DNB, today quoted a Tokyo dispatch claiming that Japanese forces had occupied Myittha, 80 miles north of Bhamo and last remaining important communications point in North Burma between China and India.

FOUR MINERS TRAPPED

Commander Says Enemy Version Fantastic; Invasion Mission Believed Broken Up

By LEE VAN ATTA

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 9—Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today that United Nations naval and air forces had scored a tremendous victory over the Japanese fleet in the Coral sea, forcing the battered enemy, with at least 11 of its ships sunk and six others severely damaged to retire to its bases north of Australia.

The general declared that United Nations losses were comparatively light and branded exorbitant Japanese claims as "false" and "fantastic."

He disclosed that the great naval engagement which had raged for more than five days had "temporarily ceased" after United Nations warships and bombing planes, chiefly American, had repulsed the huge enemy fleet, apparently bent on an invasion mission.

The defeated enemy craft limped away from the scene of battle to their bases above the island continent which was jubilant with excitement over outcome of the furious fray.

Gen. MacArthur emphasized, however, that the devastating offensive against the enemy had not ended with the temporary halt of the naval engagement and promised

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 9—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander, directed a glowing compliment today to the ability of the United Nations naval and air force personnel who intercepted and repulsed the Japanese fleet in the Coral sea.

"Our reconnaissance revealed a great building up of naval and transport elements for a coordinated attack of combined forces which was initiated several days ago," Gen. MacArthur said.

"Our naval forces then attacked in an interception. They were handled with marked skill, with admirable courage and tenacity and the enemy has been repulsed. Our attacks will continue."

that the United Nations forces would continue their attacks against Japanese ships and bases.

This time the general had struck first. And when he ordered the warships and planes under his command to intercept the Jap fleet discovered steaming off the northeastern coast of Australia his men struck hard.

United States naval ship and American bombing planes which played the major role in the combat pressed home their devastating attack against the Japs in the face of terrific anti-aircraft fire and opposition from Jap zero fighters, it was disclosed.

Striking time and time again with relentless fury, the American naval men and fliers sunk or damaged two Jap aircraft carriers, several destroyers and one cruiser from the huge enemy fleet.

They sent one carrier to the bottom and left another a flaming inferno which most probably resulted in its total loss.

Jap destroyers strove desperately during the attack to save the carrier but to no avail.

The Japs, it was said, probably lost thousands of men in the engagement since so many of their ships were sunk.

The crushing defeat, it was indicated, would change the entire course of the war in the south Pacific.

In a denouement of the Japanese claims that they had sunk two American aircraft carriers, an American battleship and sunk or damaged other United Nations vessels, Gen. MacArthur said:

"The enemy version of the battle off the northeastern coast of Australia is entirely fictional and has no semblance of truth."

Information Withheld

He said that the only reason the exact losses of the United Nations would not be made known at this time was to prevent the enemy from being taken to relieve the situation.

BOY, 16, HUNTED FOR CRIME WAVE IN TEXAS CITY

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., May 9 —Police today searched for 16-year-old George Claude Henry Jr., son of an electrical superintendent at the Corpus Christi naval air station, following the discovery that the boy's mother had been shot to death and his three-year-old sister apparently kidnapped. The body of Mrs. Henry, covered with several bedspreads, was found on a living room divan of the family's fashionable home. She had been shot through the heart by a .22-calibre rifle and in the head by a shotgun. Apparently having been without care for more than 12 hours, the Henry's younger daughter, Julia Ann, 10 weeks, was in a crib near the living room and was unharmed.

Another, Tautou Obana, a Jap alien, also has pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentence. Two others, K. Takahashi and S. Takouchi, fled to Japan.

Prosecutors in the trial will be Albert E. Arent and Arthur B. Caldwell, Special Assistants to the Attorney General and veterans in enemy alien cases. Arent has handled more of these cases than any other government attorney and never has lost one.

Specifically, Ryder is charged with acting as press agent of a Jap propaganda organization in San Francisco that posed as a "trade and information" agency. The escaped Takahashi and Takouchi set up this outfit, of which Obana was secretary. Williams is accused of distributing Jap propaganda while operating as the correspondent of an English-language newspaper published in Tokyo.

Like Townsend, Ryder and Williams were active in the isolationist movement. A nationally known isolationist publisher is reported to have secretly provided Ryder with legal aid.

Inside word is that during the trial the government will spring several sensations involving headline figures.

JAP AGENTS

On Monday, in Washington, before able Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, the first U. S. trial of alleged Jap agents will begin.

There will be two defendants—David W. Ryder and Frederick V. Williams, of San Francisco. Originally there were six, all indicted on the same charge of failing to state material facts in registering with the State Department under the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

Of the four who won't go on trial Monday, one, Ralph Townsend, Lake Geneva, Wis., has pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentence. A prominent isolationist champion, Townsend was connected with the rabidly isolationist "Scribner's Commentator."

Another, Tautou Obana, a Jap alien, also has pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentence. Two others, K. Takahashi and S. Takouchi, fled to Japan.

BURIED HOG SURVIVES

RUSHVILLE, Ind.—Dr. H. V. McCully, of Rushville, says that a hog on his farm near here lived nearly three months buried under a straw pile. When a strawshed collapsed trapping 125 hogs, farm hands believed they had recovered all of the animals. But a short time ago one hog was found under the pile, trapped in wire. The hog, which weighed 265 pounds when the straw imprisoned it, was down to 150 pounds but was still alive, apparently having existed without food or water.

'Mother' Will Be Theme of Services Conducted in District's Churches

Nearly All Congregations In Circleville Area To Have Sermons

Various churches of the county and city will hold special services in connection with Mother's day, May 10. All pastors have arranged sermons that will touch the theme of this annual recognition with many denominations scheduling evening services as well.

For the special services at the Trinity Lutheran church the Rev. G. L. Troutman has announced that his morning topic will be "Mother the Builder of Spiritual Defense."

For this service the congregation is asked to be seated in family groups with those desiring to make floral contributions to bring the same to the church prior to the first ringing of the bells.

A committee in charge of the flower arranging is composed of Mrs. Edward Sensenbrenner, Mrs. Boyd Horn and Mrs. Clifton Reichelderfer.

The Rev. James O. Miller has arranged a program for the Circleville Pilgrim church with the mothers in charge after the close of Sunday school.

Special Mother's day services will be observed at the First United Brethren church with appropriate music arranged for both the Sunday school period and the regular morning worship. "The Influence of Mother" has been announced as the subject for the sermon discussion.

The choir will sing "I Walk With God" by Rogers and Mary Ellen Kirkpatrick will sing the mezzo soprano solo.

Observance at the First Presbyterian church will place emphasis on the Christian home. The pastor, the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, will speak on the subject "The Dedicated Home." Program of the choir will include the anthem "O Happy Home" by Crofton and Miss Abbe Clarke's organ music will be "Nocturne" by Ferrata, "The Old Refrain" by Kreisler and "Finale in C" by Harris.

"His Mother Stood Over Against the Cross" has been selected as the topic for the Rev. Neil Peterson's discussion Sunday at the First Methodist church. Special music will feature a solo by Miss Marvina Henness, "Mother" by Speaks and the anthem "Mother Love Abideth" by Lorenz.

With special Mother's day arrangements under the direction of Miss Patty Hosler the Calvary Evangelical church will hold both morning and evening services. A motion picture, "The Passion Play," will be shown Sunday evening at 8 in a program of appropriate music.

All churches throughout the county have arranged varied forms of recognizing Mother's day Sunday.

Monday: The Day of Authority

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matt. 21:12-23.

After casting the money changers out of the temple, the blind and the lame came to Jesus, and He healed them.

Seeing how the Master healed the blind and lame, the children in the temple cried, "Hosanna to the Son of David."

Chief priests and scribes were angered, but Jesus said, "Out of the mouths of babes thou hast perfected praise."

Then Jesus left the temple and went out of Jerusalem to the town of Bethany, and lodged there. (Golden Text—Isaiah 56:7)

Monday: The Day of Authority

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 10 is Matthew 21:12-23, the Golden Text being Isaiah 56:7, "My house shall be called a house of prayer for all peoples.")

JESUS, GOING into the temple at Jerusalem, found men in the outer court selling livestock and doves for the worshipers to buy to offer as sacrifices, and haggling over prices, etc. Jesus became righteously angry, and drove them from the sacred place, overturning the tables of the money changers and the seats of them that sold doves. "It is written," He said, "My house shall be called the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves."

Doves could be used as substitute sacrifices on certain occasions and were bought by the poor. To turn the sacred temple into a market place was to Jesus and His followers unthinkable. It would not only defame the temple for the Jews, but make it look cheap and common to the Gentiles. There is a place for buying and selling, and it is not in the temple of God.

Jesus then turned from this act of righteous indignation to His usual merciful act of healing. The blind and the lame found Him there in the temple and came to Him to be helped. Seeing His miracles performed, children (boys) in the building, doubtless having heard the cries of "Hosanna in the highest" that rang out as Jesus entered Jerusalem on the previous day, shouted, "Hosanna to the Son of David." Hosanna is an Hebrew word meaning something like our Hurray. It is a cry of joy and wonder.

Scribes and Pharisees Angered

The scribes and Pharisees, also present in the temple, did not like this demonstration, and asked Jesus if He heard what the boys were saying. Jesus answered them, "Yea, have ye never read, Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings thou hast perfected praise?" Jesus was very familiar with the old Testament, and frequently quoted from it—often to the confusion of His enemies, whom He was always tripping.

Jesus left the temple after this, and went to Bethany to spend the night.

The next morning He left Bethany and turned again to Jerusalem.

Farming in Southern Ohio

By THOMAS E. BEERY

Rolling Hills Stock Farm

That's the name of a 200 acre farm owned and operated by C. E. Tucker, Hillsboro, Ohio, that is located about four miles northwest of Hillsboro; while a general system of farming is used, raising, training, and selling saddle horses is a major enterprise.

Ten horses were sold during the last six weeks, and a few more good ones are still on the market. Miss Louise Moore is the trainer. "She is one of the best saddle and light harness horse trainers in the middle west," Mr. Tucker pointed out. I watched her work out "The Deacon" a three year old that is going to a new owner at Lexington, Kentucky. She certainly knows how to handle a high spirited horse, like those you find on this farm.

History of Business

When I asked how long Mr. Tucker had been raising and training and selling saddle horses, I learned that he has been in this business all his life, and that he is more enthusiastic about it now, than at any time since he began.

"Boarders"

I saw some good "boarders" on this farm—horses left to be trained for the shows in the saddle and light harness classes. Miss Moore gives them many interesting lessons and they seem to enjoy the experience.

Families

The Peavine and Chief families dominate the blood lines in the breeding stock. "Princess Alice," shown all over Kentucky last year, and "never out of the money," is a good example of the wisdom of staying in these families. She is one of the prettiest horses, I have ever seen, and she has enough style, and action, and quality, to make her a winner in any show. "It will take a good one to beat her in the circuit this Summer" Mr. Tucker pointed out and I agreed with him. If you have any fondness for good horses at all, it will pay you well to see this beautiful animal.

Other Enterprises

A start in pure bred milking Shorthorn cattle is just being made. A mature cow and her three months old calf, that are outstanding individuals, is the present "seed stock" as one famous breeder explained it.

Hogs and beef cattle are the other enterprises with some poultry, raised chiefly for use in the home, with a special market in Cincinnati for the surplus eggs. Seventeen Herford "Springers" were for sale at the time of my visit. They'll be good "doers" for whoever buys them.

Large Barn

A large barn, 50 by 76 feet is well arranged for wintering so many saddle horses, by having it well divided into spacious box stalls, with plenty of mow room above them.

Twelve Duroc brood sows keep the farm well supplied with porkers that are finished for the market or sold for breeding stock.

Get Out of a Sack and Tin Can That's the advice of a very successful farmer who reared and educated a large family. "We got into these containers rather easily and slowly, but the time has now come to get out of them, and again live at home, as far as it is possible, as we did three generations ago, when we all got along with very little money, and produced almost all of our food on the farm, and live well, too," he says.

Why not plan now to raise some additional cabbage to bury in the fall; to spray and prune the orchard, so you can have plenty of apples all winter; and to enlarge the garden, or put out another or an extra truck patch, so you will not only have enough for your family, but a surplus to sell? That very thing is being planned on ter, Miss Edith Leist, and Miss Mayme Roby.

STRENGTHEN EASTERN FRONTS

EUROPE, of course, is the main front just now in this World War, but the United Nations can't go on ignoring other fronts. Especially a vital front like Burma, where the Japs have now closed the road to China and shut off Chinese supplies. Other roads will be opened from India, but they have to go through the big mountains and it is a terrific job. Meanwhile the Japs will be consolidating their gains and making it harder on that convenient front to kick them out.

So far in the present war, "Too Little and Too Late" has been the invariable procedure in that part of the world. The Japs have been allowed to get there first with the most men. The British and Allied troops have fought nobly and suffered terribly, and accomplished nothing except by delaying actions to give a respite to other areas. But no army and no nation can stand getting licked indefinitely, even for the best reasons and the noblest purpose.

It is very important now, for many reasons, that where British troops fight, they should have enough equipment and backing to win victories.

FARM WORK FOR BOYS

FARM work is coming into high honor, and there will be hundreds of thousands of high school students engaged in it this Summer. Special activity along this line is reported in and around New York City. The Board of Education, along with the U. S. Employment Service and the agricultural extension service of Cornell university, has mapped a program for high school students seeking Summer work. Seven thousand students in New York City's high schools are reported as applying for such jobs. That community is expected to supply 25,000 students to replace farm workers called to military service, 10,000 of them for general Summer work and 15,000 for seasonal work.

The pay is not bad. Schoolboys 16 years old will get about $20 a month, plus board, room and transportation. They will learn a good deal about real things, and most of them will gain in health and strength. They will have "farm advisers" and must have the consent of their parents.

Similar procedure will be followed in other parts of the country. The number of boys so employed may run into many hundred thousand. It looks like an excellent way for city and small-town boys to contribute to the national effort, while benefitting themselves.

The Queen of the May this year seems to have been "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean."

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE Hour By Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up early and followed the usual routine of first looking to see whether or not the car had been disturbed during the night. Wouldn't mind the government taking my tires if necessary, but would boil if they fell into the hands of a thief. Keep a loaded rifle upstairs and another down just in case. Saw Gib Starkey's car flat on the hubs after his tires had been stolen, and the sight set me pretty well in an idea as to how to handle the situation in the event I hear prowlers out my way.

Met Turney Weldon and John Boggs at the post. Rain did a lot of good, John declared and he should know. Saw Earl Hoffman, who only a few days ago was reported dead. Weak and much thinner, but able to be about. There goes George Grand-Girard and wearing an overcoat. Much smarter than most of us. Maybe that's the reason he has lived so long and still is hale and hearty.

Heard about George Goodchild selling a calf to George Fitzpatrick and how the calf got its head out of the sack on the way to town and made things quite interesting, and not a little messy, in the Fitzpatrick auto. The printer is not quite certain that the country gentleman did not tie the sack loosely on purpose.

In came the editor with additional news about that sea battle in which the Japs are getting some very enlightening experience with American might and determination when the numbers are somewhere near even and when Uncle Sam is not attacked unexpectedly from the rear. And that is only the first day in the kindergarten for the Orientals. They are slated for a college post graduate course before we are all through with them. And all of the time Hitler will know we are in the war, too. And this time let's really finish the job. Had to do so the last time we would not be in war today.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

FOGBANK AS POSSIBLE VEIL

WASHINGTON—Assistant Secretary of War John McCloy leaned across the dinner table to vivacious Mrs. William Denman, wife of San Francisco's distinguished federal judge, and said bantering-ly:

"You're going to be bombed."

"And you think we Californians don't know it?" shot back Mrs. Denman. "That's why we're here."

What Mrs. Denman meant was that her husband had been pounding on Capital doors for three weeks trying to get better protection for the Pacific coast. In fact, whatever protection the West Coast gets added to that of the Army and Navy, will be due in a large measure to the efforts of Judge Denman, plus Chester Rowell of the San Francisco Chronicle, and, behind the scenes, another judge—Justice Douglas of the Supreme Court, who comes from Washington State.

Reason for Judge Denman's worry is that every year from May to July a bank of fog covers a strip of the Pacific about forty miles wide from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

"This strip of fog," Denman has hammered home to War and Navy officials, "is just what the Japanese need to screen their airplane carriers. They know all about this fogbank, have studied it for years. And if they sacrifice the planes—as we know they have been willing to do—they could dump tons and tons of incendiary bombs on San Francisco, which, by the way, is rated by insurance companies next to Tokyo as the second greatest fire risk in the world."

PARACHUTISTS ALONG PACIFIC?

Judge Denman also has pounded home to the War and Navy something else which the Japanese know about—that protection of vital public utilities on the West Coast is complicated by overlapping jurisdictions.

For instance, the waterworks which supply Los Angeles and San Francisco are not near those cities, but miles away in the mountains. In case of parachute attacks, the cities could not protect their waterworks, the State has had its national guard called to the Army. Yet the federal government depends on local authorities to handle a large share of protection.

It is this inadequacy and overlapping of country sheriffs, state guards, and city police that Judge Denman drove home with great effectiveness at the War Department.

He demanded that the federal government organize some kind of reserve force to protect power plants, water systems, and other key enemy objectives in case the Japs use the fog blanket to stage a blitz on the Pacific coast this Summer.

Note—Despite Assistant Secretary McCloy's kidding of Mrs. Denman, he is one of the hardest workers to organize a new second-line of defense for the Pacific Coast.

the child can help or injure his latent mental acuity. Dr. Laird goes on to answer the following questions:

Are college professors brainy? Not especially. Tests have shown that the average college professor has only slightly more brain power than the average student. About one-fourth of the students are brainier than the average teacher. The professor knows more about his own special subject but does not necessarily have any more brain power.

Equal Average Teacher

Are there many school children who are as brainy as college teachers? Yes. There are about 250,000 United States school children today who are as brainy as the average college or university teacher. Are children as brainy as their parents believe? Seldom. The cute sayings of children impress parents more than outsiders. IQ tests show that the children seldom possess as high a degree of brain power as the parents thought.

Do school teachers usually recognize brainy children? No. Grade school teachers spot dumb youngsters more easily than brainy ones.

Are lightning calculators brainy? Seldom. A disproportionate number of lightning calculators have so few brains, other than their calculating ability, that they are to all practical purposes feeble-minded.

Is great artistic or musical ability a sign of braininess? No. An average dose of brains seems to be enough for a celebrated artist or musician. Accomplishment in these fields depends more on special gifts and their cultivation than it does on general braininess.

Can a family have one brainy and one dumb child? Not usually. Children in the same family are usually closely alike in brain power, even though they may be very unlike in interests and tastes.

Are homely people more likely to be brainy? Just the opposite according to statistics.

Are brainy children undersized? It seems so. The smallest child in the school room is usually the brainiest.

Girls and Boys Even

Are girls more likely to be brainy? No. Girls and boys have about an equal chance.

Are brainy people more likely to go crazy? No.

Are brainy people likely to be conceited? No. Brainy folk usually realize that they have better heads than others, but they do not rub it in.

Are brainy people happy? Seldom.

Does the world reward brainy people? Seldom.

Are brainy people skilled with their hands? Seldom.

Are brainy people popular? Rarely.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

H. E. J.:—Where could I purchase carbon dioxide snow? How would it be used as a treatment for a birthmark? Would it be necessary for a doctor to give the treatment?

Answer: Carbon dioxide snow is manufactured on the spot in the doctor's office and evaporates in about five minutes, so it would be impractical to try to purchase it or have anybody but a doctor use it. Its effect on birthmarks is to freeze and kill the cells.

M. C. R.:—Would it be possible for a boy five years of age to get asthma from playing with a dog?

Answer: Yes, hypersensitivity to animal dander is one of the most frequent causes of asthma.

Inquirer:—What are the symptoms of a diaphragmatic hernia? Can it be cured and is an operation necessary?

Answer: A hernia is any hole or solution in continuity in a muscle through which the intestines protrude. It is possible for the intestines to rupture through various weak spots in the diaphragm and get into the chest. It is a very rare condition and usually causes severe pain at the time of the rupture. Methods of treatment vary, but an operation is usually necessary for a complete cure.

SYNOPSIS

Three young airline hostesses, TIBBY LANE, sweet and natural; STEENA WINTERS, beautiful and sophisticated; and MARG BAKER, plain, sturdy and direct, share an apartment together in New York, where they are based. A friend of Tibby's, TOMMY DARE, is spending his first year out of medical school at a clinic in Brooklyn.

WAYNE COURTHRIGHT, wealthy official of the airline.

YESTERDAY: After Tibby coldly dismissed Tommy, Steena tells him that maybe SHE will welcome his advice some day.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

WAYNE COURTHRIGHT had been right when he had told Tibby over the phone that she would find her friend, Marg Baker, had become "quite a heroine." He had been right, too, when he had said she would read about it in the morning papers.

There was a picture of Marg—and one of Captain Mercer—on the front page. "Only, of course, it doesn't do her justice," Tibby commented loyally. "But just look what it says about her, Steena! 'Due credit is attributed to the steady nerve and calm fortitude. Captain Mercer said that Miss Baker was responsible for maintaining order and keeping up the spirits of the passengers until the rescue planes arrived. This must have been no easy task, as by the time help came, the weight of the ship having broken through the ice, water stood knee deep inside the cabin. The protruding wings kept the big plane from going under, but no one knew how much longer they could take this strain. It must have been awful.' Tibby stopped reading to exclaim.

"I don't suppose it was exactly a comfortable spot to be in," Steena admitted. "I don't envy Marg the experience, even if she is a heroine now. Most chivalrous of Captain Mercer to give her so much glory, don't you think? Most men prefer to hog it all themselves, but evidently the captain admires Marg as much as she admires him—and you know how she raves on and on about him. I must say," she finished, picking up the paper, "that HIS picture does him justice. He's not bad looking at all—if you like that stocky, sturdy type." She put the paper down again, with a slight shrug that seemed to dismiss the type for her. Then she added, significantly, "Wonder what the captain's wife will have to say to all this?"

"What could she say?" Tibby spoke more sharply than she meant to, but that was such an uncalculated remark, Tibby did not think that Marg raved "on and on" about Captain Mercer; she merely admired his ability as a pilot, an admiration that appeared warranted now.

Steena shrugged again. "Nothing—or lots of things," she said. "She may not be as generous as her husband, as anxious to give Marg all the spotlight. From what I hear, she is the sort of person who likes the center of the stage all to herself."

"Aren't you talking in riddles?" Tibby suggested. She thought Steena enjoyed dramatizing things too much. She knew, of course, what she meant—that Mrs. Mercer might be jealous of the praise Captain Mercer had bestowed on Marg; some wives were like that, about their husbands' secretaries or any other women who were thrown into contact with them.

"Maybe," Steena admitted. "But as I said before—I don't envy Marg her new position as a heroine. Sometimes it's wiser to keep out of the spotlight, you know. I tried to tell Marg that—when I told her she ought not to be seen with Captain Mercer when off duty."

"But that was only that one time," Tibby objected.

"That's what YOU think!" Steena retorted.

"Do you mean there has been more talk?" Tibby remembered what Steena had said about there being a grapevine system that spread all gossip around the field, often distorting the bare truth by embroidering it to much larger proportions. Maybe Steena was not imagining it all.

"I mean that Marg had darned well better watch her step." If Steena knew anything more definite than rumors, she evidently did not mean to pass it on just then. "You will recall that I told her that before. And that Marg lost her temper. She may lose more than that if she's not more careful. She's a very foolish girl to have ANYTHING to do with a married man."

Tibby felt rather sick, because she also felt certain that Steena did know something or she would not speak as she just had, with such certainty. "Marg has to fly with Captain Mercer," she defended her friend as best she could. "They are scheduled for the same flights."

"Marg could ask for a change in schedule," Steena said dryly. "If she were half as smart as she thinks she is, that's what she would do."

Tibby did not make any comment to that. If there were any rumors floating around that could be magnified, or if Marg had been seeing Captain Mercer when off duty, even if there was some explanation, that would be the wisest thing to do. It would be very foolish, as Steena had said, to continue as hostess on the same flight schedule, if Marg or Captain Mercer found they felt any personal interest in one another. The company, as Steena also had mentioned before, would not stand for it, although that was not, to Tibby's mind, the most important issue.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

One of the outstanding social affairs of the closing days of the school year was the annual 'Sweetheart Banquet' enjoyed Friday in the social room of the high school with the Hi-Y club as host. S. S. McCullough, district Hi-Y chairman, was a guest at the affair and presented the local club its National Hi-Y charter.

Eighty were present including club members, their 'sweethearts' and members of the faculty. Red, white and blue decorations made the hall a beautiful setting for the lovely summer frocks of the girl guests.

Dinner was served buffet style at 7 p. m., the guests being seated at tables for eight during the dinner hour. Arrangements of red, white and blue were the featured decorations.

David Betz, outgoing president, in a fine ceremony presented Walter Leist as club president for the coming year. The new president then named his official family with David Orr as vice president; Ned Stout, secretary; William Byers, treasurer, and Richard Wells, sergeant-at-arms.

An evening of dancing completed the entertainment.

Walnut Junior-Senior Banquet

Unique in all its details, the Hawaiian theme was carried out in decorations, program and menu when the Juniors of Walnut high school entertained the members of the senior class at the annual banquet Friday in the school auditorium. Thirty-two seniors and 16 faculty members were guests.

The decorations featured a typical Hawaiian hut in the center of the hall and the place card favors were of rough pieces of bark. Tables for four had red candles in the center, adding to the gay effect of the tropical scene. The programs were in maroon and white, senior class colors.

The excellent banquet was prepared by mothers of junior class members.

Joe Norris, president of the junior class, was toastmaster and carried the program along as incidents of a beautiful dream. Music was provided by the high school quartet and an instrumental duo. Femme Fatale

Cut with a low, square décolleté, this sheath gown moulds the silhouette, has chic cap sleeves covering the shoulders.

FIRA BENENSON, invariably gifted in designs, has a way with lace which was once supposed to be the jealous prerogative of the French. Granted the most feminine and yet sturdy of fabrics, lace nevertheless is too frequently an age-adder for women. When lace goes young and provocative, however, it's a web for the femme fatale.

Juniors Abandon Annual Banquet

BOYS COMPLETE ANOTHER MAJOR SCHOOL PROJECT

When the public attends the Spring concert May 14, they will undoubtedly be surprised at the newly painted bleachers.

Stooge members have added the completion of this project to their long list of achievements this year. Besides painting the bleachers the boys also put cement blocks under them raising them a little. The Board of Education provided the materials for these improvements.

Among the club's accomplishments this year are: sponsoring Dad's day football game, advertising two-mill levy, sponsoring basketball game for the benefit of the Red Cross, participating in Christmas party for under privileged children, and collecting paper for defense.

The boys also bought golf, basketball and football equipment for the athletic association and purchased grass seed for the football field. The club paid off the debt for the football lighting.

During the Pumpkin Show the Stooge booth operated by the club members attracted many customers. In March the boys aided by their mothers gave the annual benefit dinner proceeds of which were put in the "Circle" fund.

The club presented a $25 defense bond to the athletic association, doing their part in purchasing bonds.

The group should be applauded also for the many acts of charity they perform and donations they make from time to time.

Through these columns the student body and faculty wish to thank the Stooge club for the splendid work they have always done.

LOCAL DEFENSE GROUP PLANNING CONCERT, MAY 14

Thursday evening, May 14 at 8 o'clock, the Circleville Civic Defense committee will sponsor a concert on the Circleville high school athletic field. All funds will go to the committee for use in purchasing much needed equipment for their first aid classes.

Circleville high school will take the main part in the affair. The band will give a program of patriotic and jazz pieces. Also to be on the program is the C.H.S. girls' sextet and Miss Virginia Richey's first aid class.

The band platform will be placed in front of the bleachers but in case of rain arrangements have been made to hold the concert in the Memorial hall. Paul Murray of Ashville will furnish the sound system to be used for the sextet and the first aid demonstration.

Tickets for the affair may be purchased from any member of the Business and Professional Women's club, Kiwanis club, and the Rotary club.

KIWANIS SEXTET SINGS IN LOGAN

Members of the Kiwanis club of Circleville, sponsors of the Kiwanette sextet, took the sextet to Logan, Ohio, last Tuesday. The sextet made up the greater part of the program singing six numbers in all.

The girls began with two pieces, "Cradle Song" by Kreisler and "My Hero" by Strauss. For their second appearance the girls sang "In My Garden" by Firestone. At their third appearance "Deep In My Heart" by Romberg and "When Day Is Done" by Katscher were featured. "Smilin' Through" was an encore number.

Kiwanettes are Mary Virginia Crites and Carolyn Hermann, sopranos; Barbara Caskey and Marvonne Henness, second sopranos; and Virginia Palm and Eleanor Thomas, altos.

PUPILS RECEIVE SMALL VACATION

Small Spring vacation was granted to Circleville pupils but not to the faculty the first part of the week. Monday morning school was dismissed at 11:20 for a teacher's meeting and at 2:20 that afternoon. Teachers were needed to register applicants for sugar rationing.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, pupils left at the usual time, 12 noon but afternoon classes were dismissed at 2:45. Regular classes prevailed Friday. Forty-five minute periods were used so that no classes were missed.

C.H.S. STUDENTS ATTEND CIVILIAN DEFENSE MOVIE

"Ready on the Home Front," a motion picture produced by the Bell Telephone company, was shown to the student body of C.H.S. Thursday morning. Several civic groups have seen the same picture. The theme of the movie concerns defense in Ohio.

As America once again takes up arms, the citizens must be prepared. Just as important to our nation as the Army, Navy, Marine, and Coast Guard are civilians in our hour of need.

As a typical display of patriotism which is working all over the country, the picture presented the case of Sam Lincoln, an ordinary grocerman, who became an air raid warden. Among his many duties such as clearing streets, reporting damage, turning off lights, warning families, and being always on call, he showed families the safest ways of putting out incendiary bombs, means of shelter during a raid and telling them "above all, keep calm."

At the close of the picture Governor John W. Bricker addressed the people of Ohio and ended his brief talk by saying "Preparations to prevent bombing now are worth the time and energy of every man, woman, and child in the state of Ohio."

EDITORIAL

Your reporter, having been assigned the task of writing an editorial, arrived at the conclusion that the following editorial which was written by Eleanor Weaver of last year's journalism class, would be better than an editorial he could write.

AMBITION

Because there are only four weeks of school left in this term the ambition of a C.H.S. student slightly decreases. The desire of coming to and attending school is lost when warm, spring days set in.

At the beginning of the school year boys and girls are fired with great ambition. They dream of working hard, attaining scholarship awards and realizing their ambition. As the year rolls along some of the fire is either kept burning by rewards or smothered out by disappointment. In any case an ambition has been realized by some student — if only one from the whole school.

The other day a boy asked this question, "Why is it that the honor roll pupils still go on getting excellent grades and growing strong in ambition, while others with low grades, continue in their old ways and decrease in will?" The answer is loss of hope and mainly ambition.

Every day new ambitions and aims are sought but the old ones should not be thrown away. On the other hand, before discarding the old ones they should be weighed, considered, and analyzed for their benefits.

If C.H.S. students are deprived from all desires and aims, their ambition would remain on a level and not "go to pot" with each small disappointment. We are the youth of America; America needs ambitious youth.

—Eleanor Weaver

ONLY 1,163 ON HAND TO WATCH REDS, ST. LOUIS

CINCINNATI, May 9—Cincinnati's poor showing in the National league race is showing up in the gate receipts.

Only 1,163 fans were in the stands yesterday when the Reds dropped a 5-2 decision to the St. Louis Cardinals. Four of the seven runs, two for each team, were homers.

Long Lou Warneke, who in his last appearance in Cincinnati last August 30 hurled a no-hit shutout against the Reds, granted them eight bingles but kept them scattered along the route. Homers by Ray Lamanno in the second and by Frank McCormick in the sixth were the only counters he permitted.

However, successive four-base clouts by Enos "Country" Slaughter and Ray Sanders in the Card half of the sixth matched the Reds' circuit blows, while the Flood made their other seven hits good for three more tallies.

Elmer Riddle started for the Reds, and granted seven hits in as many innings until taken out for a pinch-hitter, Clyde Shoun, just obtained from the Cards, then faced his former teammates for the rest of the contest.

Johnny Vander Meer will face the Cards today, with Harry Gumbert opposing him.

Stan Spence

George Case

Bobby Doerr

They're not big stars, but Stan Spence, George Case and Bobby Doerr are making the headlines in the major leagues. Spence, a weak hitter with Boston last year, is belting the ball at a terrific pace for the Red Sox, leading both leagues in number of hits and winning ball games with his timely hitting. Doerr, flashy second baseman of the Red Sox, is hitting the ball at a 460 clip. Case, who has been the leading base stealer in the leagues for several seasons, already has pilfered eight sacks, twice as many as any other player.

CAN SHUT OUT BE TOPS AGAIN?

Greentree Entry May Go To Post In Preakness Even Money Or Less

By JACK MAHON BALTIMORE, May 9 — Can Shut Out, the last son of the old "chocolate soldier," Equipoise, blank them all again?

That was the question that buzzed around the old hilltop at Pimlico as ten smart thoroughbreds pranced in their stalls and awaited the bugler's call which will send them to the post today in the 52nd annual running of the Preakness stakes of a mile and three sixteenths.

Though the favorite Greentree entry of Shut Out, which won last week's Kentucky Derby, and his highly regarded stable-mate, Devil Diver, will probably go to the post at even money, or less, there were plenty of rooters for almost every starter in the race.

The order in which the ten top three-year-olds will go to the post for the $73,310 purse, richest since Victorian won in 1928, will be—barring last minute changes—Devil Diver, Apache, Fair Call, Requested, Domingo, Shut Out, Valdina Orphan, Alsab, Sun Again and Colchis. If all ten go any winner, with the exception of Fair Call, Requested, Valdina Orphan or Colchis, will net a purse of $58,175. A winner from this quartet of supplementary entries can only cart home a paltry $56,810.

If you must have a sentimental favorite, take Alsab once more. That's what Maryland is doing and the wise guys say the little fellow will go to the post a 3-1 second choice. Colchis, which beat him twice in five days here earlier in the year is also sure to get a heavy play and if Sun Again goes you can bet the backers of Trainer Ben Jones, who watched Whirlaway score a spectacular victory in Wednesday's Dixie handicap will send in their support.

WISCONSIN MAY LOSE ITS BIG 10 BASEBALL LEAD

CHICAGO, May 9—With three victories is as many starts, Wisconsin today still led the Big Ten baseball race, but Iowa, with seven wins and two losses, was in a position to take over the leadership if the Hawkeyes can beat the Badgers today.

The Wisconsin team beat the Iowans in the first of two-game series yesterday at Madison, 7 to 4. The Badgers got eight hits off Iowa's Faber, and Walter Lautenschlager, Wisconsin hurler, distinguished himself by driving in three runs.

In other Western Conference games yesterday, Minnesota beat Chicago, 16 to 0, at Chicago; Michigan nicked Northwestern, 6 to 2, at Ann Arbor; Ohio set back Illinois, 2 to 1, at Columbus, and Purdue downed Indiana, 4 to 1, at Bloomington.

The Mother Vineyard, said to have been growing on Roanoke island, North Carolina, at the time of the First English settlement in 1584, is still producing.

New Holland Winner Of Track Meet; Girls Put 37 Points In Column

Running up a total of 48 points, 37 of which were scored by the brilliant girls team, New Holland high school won the Pickaway county track and field meet Friday, the event being conducted on its own field.

The Bulldog boys were able to garner only 11 points, finishing behind five other schools, but the 37 piled up by the school's girls carried the west-counties into the lead.

Ashville boys piled up 34 points, Pickaway being a close second with 33, and Williamsport third with 30.

Final results were:

The meet, under supervision of Harold Costlow, New Holland, superintendent, and with Wilbur Griffith of Walnut school being in charge of starting proved to be an excellent one, with close competition. A large crowd was on hand.

DODGER, GIANT. GAME NETS BIG SERVICE FUND

Nearly $60,000 To Go Into Treasury For Relief Of Army, Navy

NEW YORK, May 9—Baseball today is credited with having gone all out for the war effort.

Everybody paid his way into the ball park, including umpires, newspapermen, players, Mayor LaGuardia of New York, and the park attendants yesterday when the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants tangled up for a contribution of $59,859.

The game was the first of several slated for the service funds and the first twilight game ever staged in the majors, with notables from all walks of life in attendance.

The Dodgers won the ball game, the first of the year between the Dodgers and the Giants at Ebbets field. The score was 7 to 6 and the outcome left the Dodgers in first place by 1 1/2 games over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Giants were leading by 2 to 0 when the Dodgers exploded a four-run third inning and they were never headed thereafter. Among the Dodgers' safe blows was another home run by Dolph Camilli.

The Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 4, to stay in second place with little difficulty and in the other game of the day in the National league the third place, St. Louis Cardinals downed the Cincinnati Reds, 5 to 2 behind the eight-hit pitching of Lon Warneke.

In the American league, the Boston Red Sox lost ground by dropping a game to the Philadelphia Athletics, 2 to 1.

Marchildon Wins

Phil Marchildon hurled the victory, his fourth of the year against two defeats as Charley Wagner suffered his first defeat of the season.

That was the only game in the American league, with today's schedule calling for Washington at New York, Boston at Philadelphia, Cleveland at Detroit and Chicago at St. Louis.

In the National, New York played at Brooklyn again, St. Louis at Cincinnati, Pittsburgh at Chicago and Philadelphia at Boston.

BUCKEYE TRACK TEAM TO MEET MICHIGAN CREW

COLUMBUS, May 9 — The track team that gave Ohio State its first Western Conference indoor track championship this past March will meet Michigan's thin-clads today in an outdoor cinder duel that may prove a tipoff on the winner of the Big Ten track championships to be held at Evanston, Ill., on May 15-16.

Together with Illinois and Indiana, the Wolverines are regarded as top contenders for outdoor title which Indiana won last spring. However, the odds are stacked in Ohio's favor, since the Buckeye's performances at the Butler and Drake relays stamp them as one of the finest track aggregations ever produced at Ohio State.

But the Buckeye-Wolverine meet is featured with a more personal rivalry since Ohio State has only won one outdoor track meet from Michigan in 27 duels since 1907.

Bob Wright, Big Ten and Butler Relay hurdle champion, is expected to clinch first place in the low and high hurdles while George Hoefflinger, another Buckeye track star, will probably battle Michigan's McCarthy in the high for second place, and the Wolverine's Thomas and Ohio's LeRoy Collins in the low hurdles for a similar spot.

Bob Ufer of Michigan who won the 440-yard dash at the Big Ten indoor conference in record time will oppose Ohio State's crack sprinter, Russ Owen.

For the mile relay event, the last on the program, Ohio State will enter the team of LeRoy Collins, Captain Ralph Hammond, Dal Dupre and Russ Owen who won the Drake Relay title easily. Ufer and Owen will anchor their respective teams.

Ohio State is almost conceded the high jump since Hoefflinger's best leap of six feet, four inches exceeds the best Wolverine performance.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. REIS, O. S. U. Horticulturist

QUESTION: Will you please give me some information about a lilac bush. It has been planted four years, is only three feet high, and has never bloomed. We bought it at a store and it was supposed to bloom the next year. J. W. N., Wheeling, West Virginia.

ANSWER: I learn a lot about horticulture that I never learned before every time that I listen to store clerks giving out horticultural information. It is marvelous what they can tell about plants that real gardeners have never heard. That is why it is advisable to buy nursery stock if possible directly from a nursery. The common lilac, whether it is white or purple, is often rather slow to come into bloom. We recommend the so-called French hybrids because they bloom as much smaller plants. You also will find that the Chinese and Persian lilacs practically always will bloom the second year after planting and some the first.

Lilacs are one of the few shrubs that like sweet or alkaline soil. Therefore, if your soil is naturally acid, an application of lime will be helpful. Lilacs, like all other plants whether they are shrubs, evergreens, roses, perennials, annuals, peonies, lilies, daffodils, or just plain grass, respond to fertilization. A complete commercial fertilizer with an analysis of 4-14-2 or 4-10-6 will help plant growth.

QUESTION: My supposedly hardy fuchsia will not winter over. Why? L. L., Toledo.

ANSWER: The so-called hardy fuchsias are often hardy in name only although, oddly enough, the Scarlet Beauty fuchsia which has been in my garden for the past two years survived last winter without any protection. If you will give your hardy fuchsia well-drained soil and mulch it with a foot of leaves, excelsior, or four inches of glass wool, it should winter over. Unfortunately, hardy fuchsias in seasons like last year are very poor bloomers. If the seasons are not too hot and not too dry, they will bloom much better.

QUESTION: How soon should I start dusting or spraying my roses? Mrs. G. S., Middleport.

ANSWER: It is hard to give a definite answer to this question but, since I know that there are plant lice on roses in the southern part of the state at the present time, I believe it would be safe to recommend that you start pest control program on your roses as soon as the new growth is several inches long. Some folks like to spray. I find dusting much easier and less expensive. Use a dust gun, which you can purchase for from 50 cents to a couple of dollars.

I use a dust mixture of 9 parts dusting sulphur, 1 part arsenate of lead, and 2 parts of either pyrethrum or rotenone. If you cannot get the pyrethrum or rotenone, I believe you will be able to get a new nicotine dust. I would use 1 part of this.

I dust my roses once a week throughout the summer. Since the dust is very fine, the foliage does not need to be damp with dew. It is essential that you get the dust on the under surface as well as the upper surface of the foliage. This means that, whether you use a sprayer or a duster, there should be an elbow or deflector on the end of the pipe so that the material may be applied upward as well as downward. May I suggest that you ask your county agricultural agent for a copy of our bulletin on garden roses.

QUESTION: Will arsenate of lead and lime used as a spray destroy bag worms on evergreens? J. L. K., Jackson.

ANSWER: Bag worms are very easily controlled by spraying or dusting with arsenate of lead. I see no reason for including the lime when spraying. If you have only a few bag worms, you will probably find it easier to hand pick them than to spray.

QUESTION: Do all bag worms hold caterpillars? A. G., Montgomery.

ANSWER: The bag worms that you see on the trees at the present time contain only eggs. These will hatch sometime during May or early June. Dr. Houser, entomologist at the Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster, recommends that when the bag worms are controlled by hand picking, the bags be put all together in a tin can somewhere near the plants in which the bag worms have been found. The bag worms themselves will be harmless in this can but since many of them contain parasites, it gives these an opportunity to escape and act as a natural control for other bag worms in the vicinity.

QUESTION: What variety of privet withstood the winter? J. L. S., Jackson.

ANSWER: This is one of those years when we can say, "I told you so!" to folks who have insisted on planting California privet against our recommendation that they plant some hardier form. Actually, although it grows up again from the roots even though killed to the ground, the California privet is not really satisfactory for planting in Ohio. Completely hardy even in the winter such as we have just had are the Amur River privet, the Itoha privet, and the Regal privet. Any of these may be used for a hedge. If you wish to use them as individual shrubs planted with other flowering shrubs, I would recommend the Regal privet for a relatively low one, since it gets about four feet high, and Itoha privet for a shrub six to eight feet high. The European privet is even hardier so far as winter is concerned but is rather susceptible to a blight, which in some sections of the state makes it impractical. Incidentally, if you buy a Regal privet, be sure that you get those that have been propagated from cuttings since Regal privets grown from seed are practically the same as Itoha privets.

Marco Polo told of the Mongols that when they went on a journey each man took about 10 pounds of dried milk. Every morning he put half a pound of this milk into his leather bottle, with as much water as he wanted and as he rode the dried milk and water got well mixed into a kind of pap, which made the man's dinner.

JAPS FORCED TO RUN FROM PACIFIC FIGHT

from obtaining valuable information.

In announcing the end of the naval battle, MacArthur said: "The great naval and air battle off the northeast coast of Australia has temporarily ceased," MacArthur said.

"The enemy has been repulsed. Our attack will continue."

The blasting of the Japanese fleet was the most complete defeat administered to the axis by the United Nations so far in the course of the war. The naval engagement was described in some quarters as greater than the famed World War battle of Jutland. The Japanese were forced to retire from the fray in a disorganized state from which they may never be able to recover.

Sent to the bottom by United Nations ships and airplanes were one Jap aircraft carrier, a heavy cruiser, a light cruiser, two destroyers, four gunboats, one supply ship and one transport.

Severely damaged were another aircraft carrier, a heavy cruiser, one light cruiser, one seaplane tender, a transport and a cargo ship.

The damaged carrier was so severely wrecked that it was believed to be a total loss.

(Reuter's (British) news agency reported that the Japanese had lost two aircraft carriers, indicating that the one which had been seriously damaged finally had sunk.)

Commenting in his communiqué on the advance of the beaten Japanese fleet southward through waters above Australia before they were engaged, Gen. MacArthur said:

"This action represents continued efforts of the Japanese to extend their aggressive conquests toward the South and Southeast. The first efforts were aimed at expanding their air bases, but our air force consistently and effectively attacked his fields during the last six weeks, dislocating his plans through destruction of installations and aircraft.

"Our reconnaissance revealed a great building up of naval and transport elements for a coordinated attack of combined forces which was initiated several days ago.

"Our naval forces then attacked in an interception. "They were handled with marked skill, with admirable courage and tenacity and the enemy has been repulsed.

"Our attacks will continue."

Smash Forecast Gen. MacArthur's communiqué was interpreted in authoritative quarters as indicating the gravity with which the supreme command in Australia regarded the Japanese concentrations in island territories to the North. For several weeks, it was said, it had become

ZOO FAVORITE USES NEW DIET AND WILL LIVE

CHICAGO, May 9 — Partly because of her blameless habits of living—she doesn't smoke, drink or eat fats—Mei Mei was pronounced on the road to recovery at the Brookfield zoo today, after an eight-day siege of what was believed to be stomach ulcers.

Mei Mei is the zoo's famous panda, and news that the furry, almost human pet was ill brought inquiries from all parts of the country about her health. Prominent physicians were consulted in the case.

Edward H. Bean, zoo director, said today:

"I believe Mei Mei is on the way to recovery and will live. She has been seriously ill, and it was feared for a time she would die, but she has now been shifted to a diet suitable for persons suffering from ulcers—milk, syrup, plain white cereal, boiled carrots and baked bananas and sweet potatoes."

Mei Mei, brought from China, is by far the most popular animal at the zoo, and a favorite with Chicago children.

WILLIAM SMYERS DIES

William Smyers, 67, died Friday at 5:40 p. m. at his home, Lancaster route 2. Survivors include his widow, Lydia; eight children, seven of whom are at home, and a brother, Henry. The funeral will be Sunday at 2 p. m. at the residence with burial in Pine Grove cemetery by the Defenbaugh funeral home.

FIELD TRIAL BOOKED

Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportsmen's Association will hold a coon dog field trial at Valley View Sunday, beginning at 1 o'clock. Charles Smith, chairman of the event has announced various awards for dogs entered.

obvious that the Japanese planned a lightning smash towards the Australian continent.

Attacking suddenly and employing brilliant interceptive strategy, the United States fleet and air units, combined with United Nations forces, heaped their blows on the Japanese to the enemy's apparent complete surprise.

The Nipponese concentrations were broken up and the remnants forced to flee.

The cryptic phrase in Gen. MacArthur's communiqué stating "the enemy has been repulsed" tells only part of the story. And that part now is of the greatest importance to the future conduct of the war in the southwest Pacific area.

Strongly supported by heavy attack by dive bomber bombardments units of the air force, the United States naval forces, under command of Vice Admiral Herbert F. Leary, seems to have more than paid back the tragic sneak attack by the Japanese against Pearl Harbor.

'WOMAN of the Year', starring Katherine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy, is one of the Circle theatre's weekend features. Also on the bill is 'Ghost Town Law' with Buck Jones and Tim McCoy.
